MISSION

TSCOR encourages older adults to remain active and independent through enrichment programs and volunteer service to their peers.

VISION

Older adults helping one another stay active, independent and engaged.
Navigating the 2020-2021 year with its global pandemic proved challenging for everyone, and The Shepherd’s Center of Richmond was no exception. Simply weathering the storm and being able to continue offering TSCOR’s programs and services to older adults in RVA became our North Star.

The board of directors quickly established a COVID-19 task force, who in turn worked with staff and volunteers, helping to make difficult decisions and implement new safety procedures. Staff began working remotely. Our lifelong learning programs, Open University and Lunch & Life, moved online. Students and instructors alike learned to use Zoom. Drivers and clients adapted to safety guidelines, getting to doctor appointments and delivering groceries. A temporary friendly caller program was instituted, alleviating separation through interaction. Board and committee meetings met online, allowing members to plot the way forward. Everyone helped in moving TSCOR through an unsettled time, unlike any encountered before.

We made changes and sailed into uncharted territory for one reason only: to uphold our mission. Keeping older adults active, independent and engaged became even more important during the pandemic. And avoiding social isolation became especially important for all of us.

As we move into yet another year of the pandemic, we are learning to ride the wave of this new normal; we prepare for times of normality peppered with times of caution. And we look forward to upholding our mission—keeping older adults active, independent and engaged—by making our lifelong learning programs hybrid with a mix of online and in person classes; by reaching out to the community for new drivers and thereby increasing our capability to serve seniors; by reaching new members, new students, and new volunteers. We look forward to a new normal of inclusivity, diversity and positive growth—together.
